

I am looking at a press dispatch from Buenos Aires dated yesterday. It reports that Argentine newspapers publish long lists of persons arrested for "treason mongering," the jails are filled with "terrorists," and Dictator Peron is steadily moving toward a complete police state.

This latest news is forwarded by Ray Vicker to the Wall Street Journal. But for several days I have had on my desk an editorial from the Atlanta (Ga.) Constitution that must have been published more than a month ago but which explains clearly what is happening now in Argentina and what will continue to happen unless Peron changes his course — or, which is more likely, Argentina changes it for him.

We used to think of dictatorships as tyrannical organizations of princes wealthy men landowners, big merchants, and others of extensive political influence. But in the 20th century we have learned with shocked surprise that so-called social reformers can set up tyranny rivaling the worst of the classic dictators. We saw Lenin in Russia, Mussolini in Italy, and Hitler in Germany, each in his time become a dictator with the support of radical labor groups.

The same performance has been given in Argentina by Peron whose labor backing has permitted an absolute dictatorship to be set up in our Western world.

And this brings me to the thought expressed in the Atlanta editorial mentioned above. The writer of the Constitution's piece points out that Peron's dictatorship absolutely depends on his power to suppress free speech and press. And then we are given the exact language of Argentine Law No. 13895 on "Suppression of Treason, Espionage, and Sabotage, Article 6":

"All those shall be imprisoned from one month to four years who, without authorization, hand over, remit, communicate, publish or circulate economic, political, military, financial or industrial information which, without being secret or confidential, is not intended for publication or diffusion and concerning which they had obtained or been confided knowledge because of the nature of their employment, function, status, or mission."

In a democratic state the officer-holder says "No comment" to criticism. But in a dictatorship he says "No criticism — and that's an order, Mister!"

Merchants Air Various Problems

The Retail Merchants group met in its regular Wednesday morning breakfast with 14 percent. Chairman Harrell Hall read another letter concerning the parcel post package regulation from Chairman Carlson of the Senate Committee on Post Office and Civil Service, stating that due consideration would be given to the problems now facing businesses, caused by the reduction in parcel post package sizes.

The main subject for discussion was store closing for Saturday, July 4. After considering the proposition from every angle and particularly from the point of view of the customers served by Hope retail businesses, the group unanimously voted to maintain Saturday store hours on Friday, July 3, and to close the stores on Saturday, July 4.

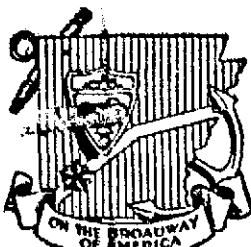

A special committee was appointed for the next Hope Value Day, to be conducted Tuesday, July 7, which included Emil Kaden, Chairman, Aaron Tollett, and Jim La-Grossa.

The members present were reminded that tickets for the Hamilton Moses luncheon to be held Tuesday, June 23, at the Hotel Barlow at 12 noon, are on sale at the Chamber of Commerce office. Mr. Moses' visit to Hope is being jointly sponsored by the Hope Kiwanis Club and the Hope Chamber of Commerce. Both groups are anxious that a capacity crowd hear Mr. Moses but also remind the members of the Chamber of Commerce and others that the Hotel banquet room will only accommodate about 140 and urge them to get their tickets as early as possible.

In response to an invitation extended by the Retail Merchants Committee, state Highway Director Eldridge, and commission member, Glenn Wallace of Nashville, will speak to a group at a noon luncheon at Hotel Barlow Tuesday, June 30. This will be Mr. Eldridge's first visit to Hope and, doubtless, there are many who will be interested in hearing him discuss the plans and problems of the Arkansas State Highway Department. Reservations for this luncheon can be made at the Hope Chamber of Commerce office.

Douglas Hands Rosenbergs Execution Stay

Impeachment, Special Court Meet Rumbled

WASHINGTON (AP) — Justice William O. Douglas today threw a legal bar against the execution of atomic spies Julius and Ethel Rosenberg tomorrow, but the government promptly asked that the full court — in summer recess — convene and strike down his action.

Pressing for speed, Justice Department lawyers made plain their hope was to see that the death sentences were carried out, if possible, at tomorrow night's 9 p. m. (CST) appointed time.

An extraordinary night session of the high tribunal seemed possible to consider what Attorney General Brownell called Douglas' "unprecedented action."

In Congress, there was a demand for Douglas' removal from the Supreme bench.

Rep. Wheeler (D-Ga) told the House he would introduce an impeachment resolution — a statement that brought cheers and applause.

Douglas, after a full day of study, granted a stay of execution pending court decisions on whether the husband-and-wife team of atom spies were tried under the right law.

They were accused of stealing atomic secrets and passing them to the Russians, and were tried under a 1918 law dealing with espionage.

Two lawyers who had not even been retained by the Rosenbergs argued to Douglas, however, that this law had been superseded by the 1943 Atomic Secrets Act — a special law covering all atomic matters, including atomic spying. This law authorizes the death penalty after it is recommended by that jury after proof that the violation was with intent to injure the United States.

Douglas did not rule as to whether the self-appointed defense attorneys were correct in this argument.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Justice Douglas today granted a stay of execution to atom spies Julius and Ethel Rosenberg.

The husband-and-wife spy team had been scheduled to die in the electric chair at Sing Sing prison in New York at 9 p. m. (CST) tomorrow.

Douglas' 11th hour stay put off the execution to an indefinite date — if it is to be carried out.

The Supreme Court justice issued an "ad hoc" printed statement saying he would not issue a writ of habeas corpus, as the Rosenbergs' lawyers had asked, but:

"I will grant a stay effective until a question of the applicability of the penal provisions of section 10 of the Atomic Energy Act to this case can be determined by the District Court and the Court of Appeals (in New York), after which the question of a further stay will be open to the Court of Appeals or to a member of this court in the usual manner."

The writ of habeas corpus sought by attorneys for the Rosenbergs would have required the government to prove at a hearing its legal right to retain custody of the couple.

Father's Day — the One When You Get All Those Presents Which You Escaped Christmas

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Father's Day is on the horizon, and already fathers are feeling sheepish about it.

"They are not sure whether they like a day in their honor. Or at least they pretend to feel this way. 'It just means I will be sand-bagged by all those odd presents I escaped last Christmas — the strange gifts women think men yearn for,' said one father. 'And naturally, I'll then have to take the whole tribe out to dinner, pick up the check — and pay later the bills for the gimmicks mama and the kids gave me.'"

Father is not used to being a hero in this civilization, even for a day. It is a bit different with Mother's Day. Motherhood is a

Alumni of Bodcaw High School to Meet July 12

Alumni of Bodcaw High School will hold their annual Homecoming Sunday, July 12 at 2 p. m. on the Bodcaw High School Campus.

Bodcaw is one of the oldest schools in South Arkansas having a school history dating back as far as 1835.

Horace B. Fuller, president of the association will serve as master of ceremonies. All former students of Bodcaw Schools, all residents and former residents, husbands and wives of Bodcaw are invited. Open house in the Home Economics Cottage will begin at 2 p. m. and a fish fry will be held at 5:30.

Homecoming activities will be over in time for everyone to attend the regular Sunday night sing. The singing that night will be something extra as the biggest singing school in Arkansas will begin the following morning.

Those who wish to attend are asked to mail reservations to Mrs. Ardus Butler, Secretary of Bodcaw Alumni Association, Bodcaw, Ark.

Two Bandits Hold Up Bank at Franklin

MELBOURNE (UP) — Two bandits held up the bank at Franklin, 12 miles north of here, at 10 a. m. today and "cleaned out" the vault.

Miss Wilma Foreman, assistant cashier, was alone in the bank when the men entered and forced her into the vault. She said she could not tell how much money they took, but it was practically everything in the vault.

The men had ample time to escape, as there are no communications in the Little Izard County town, and Miss Foreman sent to Melbourne to notify officers.

Izard County Sheriff Elmer Fudge and state police began an immediate investigation.

The bank, one of three in the county, has a capital of $300,000. It is said to be the only bank in the United States that did not close during the bank holiday during the depression because notice of the shutdown was not received until after the holiday.

The population of Franklin is 100.

Lemmings Again Choose Drowning Over Starvation

POINT BARROW, Alaska, (AP) — Hundreds of thousands of lemmings, said to face a "starve or drown" choice, are choosing drowning again in a mass migration into the Arctic Ocean's frigid waters.

The migration started here early this week and the little furry-footed rodents with the short tail and odd teeth have been pouring out from shore onto the sea ice in a continual stream since then.

There is no food on the ice either — just death by cold or drowning as they scamp over the shores into the water. Some have been observed as far as 25 miles from the sea ice, still scampering over the sea ice.

Dr. John Buckley, biologist for the University of Alaska in Fairbanks, said science can't fully explain the periodic suicide migrations of the lemmings in the Arctic.

But, he said, "when they exhaust their food, they haven't got much choice. They either starve on land or go out to sea and drown."

The lemmings feed on roots, and the scarcity of such forage in the bleak Arctic coastline seems to bear out Dr. Buckley's explanation.

They migrate to their death periodically. The last time was in 1940. Countless thousands of them perished that year.

Lemmings are found in the cold, northern extremes of North America and Europe.

House Battles Over Benefits to Veterans

By B. L. LIVINGSTONE
WASHINGTON (AP) — The House found itself embroiled today in a new fight over veterans' benefits as it neared a vote on a $5,244,309,664 appropriations bill.

The bulk of the appropriation, or $4,008,335,264, is earmarked to operate Veterans Administration programs in the year beginning July 1.

Of the rest, $1,057,781,000 would go to the Atomic Energy Commission, $188,371,000 to the Tennessee Valley Authority and $29,882,400 to selective service.

The House was expected to approve most of the figures but the row over veterans' benefits was started by proposals from the appropriations committee to curtail free hospital and dental care for veterans with non-service-connected illnesses.

Leading the fight to kill these "riders" to the appropriations bill were members of the House Veterans Committee. They contended publicly that this was a matter for their committee to decide.

Rep. Tague (D-Tex.) senior Democrat on the veterans committee argued the riders opened up V.A. hospitals to new groups of veterans by making partial payments possible, and "You'll have them going in by the thousands."

Mrs. Edith Nourse Rogers (R-Mass.) chairman of the veterans committee, promised the House that her group would hold hearings on the proposed restrictions if they were removed from the appropriations bill.

James McLarty Elected Head of Local Masons

New Security Order Related by President

WASHINGTON (UP) — President Eisenhower announced today a proposed new information security order which he said is designed to further the flow of news from the government to the people.

Mr. Eisenhower told his news conference he is making public the speech so the press can study it and recommend possible changes.

He would not promise that all such recommendations will be followed but said they will be given careful consideration.

The proposed new order would substitute for a controversial one issued by former President Truman in September, 1951.

Mr. Eisenhower's order would

Steel Cost Up, Other Items Will Follow

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP) — U. S. Steel Corp. boosted steel prices a average of $4 a ton today, presaging industry-wide hikes which could send the nation's living costs spiraling.

Big Steel's action came five days after it granted an 8½-cent hourly pay increase to 170,000 employees represented by the CIO United Steelworkers.

It is the first rise in basic steel prices since a 53-day strike last summer which ended after the union won a 21½-cent hourly pay package increase.

Other steel producers are expected to follow U. S. Steel's lead and raise prices. They probably will adhere to a similar scale. However, President C. M. White of Republic Steel Corp., says his firm plans an increase of 15 to 20 a ton.

Industry-wide steel price boosts may be reflected in higher prices for the many thousands of items which are made of steel. It is unlikely that manufacturers will absorb any such hikes, meaning the consumer ultimately may have to pay more for everything from pins to refrigerators.

Cubs to Be at Full Strength Here Tonight

50,000 'Happy' Germans Riot Against Russia

By TOM REEDY

BERLIN (AP) — Fifty thousand rioters exploded a four-hour revolt against Red rule in East Berlin today. Soviet troops, backed by tanks and armored cars, fired on the workers, and the Russian authorities declared martial law.

The East Berliners hauled down and burned the Red flag, ousted German Communist officials and shouted "iron go home." But the drastic military action dispersed the crowds and ended the violence.

No accurate account of casualties was available. At least one pedestrian had been killed, and several wounded.

At the height of the rioting Otto Nuschke, deputy prime minister of the East German government, deserted to the West. Nuschke, 70, head of the collaborating wing of the Christian Democratic party, long has been reported in hot water with Communist authorities.

His party has been under fire since January when its deputy chairman, Foreign Minister George Dertinger, was arrested and charged with being a "spy."

Nuschke crossed into the American sector and reported to the Tempelhof police barracks. The political department of the West Berlin police said he applied for asylum.

The revolt in Berlin, 100 miles inside the Soviet occupation zone of Germany, started yesterday as a stage-managed parade in which 5,000 workers marched to the East German government headquarters demanding lighter working schedules.

Apparently the government intended to show its new-found policy of freedom and democracy by allowing the workers to demonstrate. The movement got out of hand. Everybody with a gripe cast cution to the winds today and workers began calling a general strike.

After East Berlin police vainly battled to stem the tide of rioting, green-helmeted Soviet troops, amounting to a regimental combat team (perhaps 3,000 men) were called in.

Tanks deployed against the workers. Gunfire echoed at several places where the biggest crowds were gathered. The police attacked tanks with stones, and disabled at least one with a log jammed into the treads. But the mobs had to give way. The core of the demonstration was scattered.

Finally, about 2 p. m. Maj. Gen. P. J. Dabrowski, military commander in the East sector, imposed martial law on East Berlin. The order forbids gatherings of more than three persons on the streets, and imposed a 9 p. m. to 5 a. m. curfew for all pedestrians and vehicle traffic.

The order in effect took authority out of the hands of the Russian puppets, the East Berlin government, and rolled the situation back to that of 1945 when the Russians ruled with their own iron hand.

West German and Allied authorities, surprised by the violent turn, predicted the Russians would now, perhaps even an approach to the West on unfriendly the day.

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, before the West German parliament in Bonn, said the rioting represented "a great demonstration of the East German people's will for freedom." He said Communist oppression can be cured only through "the reunification of our country in freedom."

Fifteen Russian T-34 tanks, 20 armored cars and 30 truckloads of machinegunners concentrated on the ugly mob threatening government headquarters after East Berlin.

Cease Fire Line Agreed on, Say Chinese Reports

By WILLIAM C. BARNARD

SEOUL, Thursday (AP) — The fighting died abruptly early today on the Korean front in the wake of a reported agreement at Panmunjom on a cease-fire line.

The hills of Easter Korea, which had rocked for a week to the greatest Chinese Communist offensive in two years, were quiet except for the occasional clash of patrols and the crash of artillery.

On the bloody East-Central front, where 2,400 Chinese had battled Republic of Korea troops all day Wednesday, the only action reported early Thursday was a single patrol clash.

It still was too early to say whether the fighting was dying to zero as the hour of armistice approached, but another 24 hours probably will tell the story.

Communist correspondents at Panmunjom had suggested that everyone watch what happened at the front — an apparent reference to a halt of the Red attack.

Communist loud speakers along the front blared that there would be an armistice by June 25, third anniversary of the war.

The Chinese had attacked into South Korea troops Wednesday on both sides of the Enga Central Front, and appeared to be pushing up the a. a. greater attack by dark. But that attack never came.

A U. S. Eighth army spokesman said the new Pukhan River line established after a two-mile withdrawal by the South Koreans Sunday and Monday appeared "out of the fluid stage now and still jittery."

Bitter saw-saw battles — at times hand-to-hand — raged in fog and rain at each flank of the two-mile bulge, however, even as the Peking radio hinted broadly that negotiators have approved a cease-fire line.

A Chinese battalion shoved back ROK soldiers who had advanced more than 300 yards in a savage fight southeast of Red-held Finger Ridge, western anchor of the bulge.

Southwest of Christmas Hill on the right flank of the front, the ROKs recaptured M-1 Ridge and moved nearly 400 yards north of it, only to be pushed back to the ridge by a counterattacking Communist battalion.

By ROBERT B. TUCKMAN
MUNSAN, Korea (AP) — The talks of Communist China, Peking, radio hinted broadly tonight that a cease-fire line has been drawn and approved, clearing the final hurdle. Continued on Page Three

Communist Planes Bomb Airport

SEOUL, Wednesday (AP) — Fifteen Communist planes bombed Kimpoo Airfield and Seoul's port of Incheon last night and early today, touching off huge fires visible for 40 miles.

The fire raged through a fuel dump at Incheon. It was the biggest Communist air raid of the war on Seoul's environs.

The Fifth Air Force said an undetermined number of bombs were dropped.

While anti-aircraft fire roared and crackled across the sky, the low-flying planes methodically

10-Year Dream Comes True for Workers

CHICAGO (AP) — A 10-year dream "bought" with meatless sandwiches and old Easter outfits will come true next month when 141 factory women and office workers take off for a mass vacation flight to Europe.

The women plan to tour six countries and visit the Pope and Ambassador Clare Boothe Luce in Rome. They have asked Queen Elizabeth of England and Queen Juliana of The Netherlands to receive them and are hopefully awaiting replies.

None of the women ever has visited Europe and only a few days been up in a plane. They are mostly industrial workers and some of them are in the Ft. Wayne, Ind., plant of General Electric Company.

They have arranged to fly July 25 from Ft. Wayne to New York, then on to London and three weeks later back to Ft. Wayne aboard several special TWA constellations.

They will be the largest civilian group ever to fly the Atlantic at one time.

take away from 27 government agencies the right to "classify" information, thus keeping it from being made public. The authority to classify would be given only to the heads of 16 other agencies.

Mr. Truman's order gave the classification right to all departments.

Information under the new order would be classified "top secret," "secret," and "confidential." If its disclosure would be detrimental to national security.

A fourth classification set up under the Truman order — "restricted" — would be eliminated. Mr. Eisenhower said that one has been used as a sort of catch-all.

Asked if he believes the new order would further the flow of government news to the people, Mr. Eisenhower said that is certainly its purpose.

Mr. Truman's old order was so many and journalistic organizations as, at least, a vehicle for suppression of legitimate government news, although Mr. Truman denied repeatedly that such was its intent.

The White House made public a letter from Attorney General Herbert Brownell, Jr., to Mr. Eisenhower listing these major improvements over the Truman order:

1. "Information may be classified only if required in the interest of the defense of the United States."

2. There are "positive" provisions for removing or downgrading classification when security and defense interests no longer require such.

3. Procedures are established to make "more definite and certain" dropped their bombs.

One bomb found its mark on the petroleum, oil and lubrication dump in the Incheon vicinity. Leaping flames from the fire lighted Seoul, 20 miles to the east. An Allied officer said the fire "will burn for a couple of days."

The Air Force said it was believed the attacking planes were Russian-built PO-2 light biplanes.

to a quick truce in Korea. The broadcast came a few hours after Allied and Communist negotiators met for 20 minutes at Panmunjom then recessed amid rumors that a demarcation line had been agreed upon.

There was no hint from official sources that agreement has been reached.

Two teams of staff officers convened after the plenary session. One group reportedly working on the demarcation line met for eight hours then adjourned without scheduling another meeting, suggesting that they had completed their work.

The second group, which is believed to have been working on other final truce details, scheduled another session Thursday.

U. S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles said Monday the only remaining barrier to quick agreement of an armistice was the line of contact.

Spokesmen for the U. N. Command on the line was reached.

There were some developments to support reports of an agreement.

Sees Balanced Budget as Not Even Close

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Byrd (D-Va.) said today the Eisenhower administration isn't going to come close to balancing the budget unless Congress cuts foreign aid drastically.

The Virginia senator added he doubts the lawmakers will get around to extending the excess profits tax as requested by President Eisenhower, a view shared by a finance committee colleague, Sen. George (D-Ga.).

"I don't think we are going to have any tax bill this session," George observed.

Noting Eisenhower's estimate that failure to extend the excess profits levy for six months would cost the Treasury 500 million dollars, Byrd said he believes foreign aid spending should be reduced more than a billion dollars below the approximately six billion dollar level now contemplated by the administration.

"Unless foreign aid is cut, we are not going to come very close to balancing the budget in the next fiscal year and there is likely to be a 10 billion dollar deficit in the following year," Byrd said.

George said he thinks that regardless of what the Senate does about a $5,318,000,000 Mutual Security Administration authorization bill scheduled for Senate action next week, appropriations will be shaved at least a billion below that level.

Independent Swedish settlements in what is now the United States were founded in 1638, taken over by the Dutch in 1655 and by the British 10 years later.

Human Life Cheap to Reds, Ike Asserts

By DONALD J. GONZALES

WASHINGTON (UP) — President Eisenhower said today that if the Chinese Communists and North Koreans are sincere in wanting an armistice, they are displaying complete indifference for human life in their present offensive.

Mr. Eisenhower told his news conference that the Communists' expensive efforts by the Communists to capture relatively small positions is a regrettable waste of human lives.

The chief executive said he is not certain what effect the giant Communist attacks would have on efforts to complete a Korean truce.

(Reports from the Far East indicated the United Nations and Communist negotiators are near completion of a truce agreement despite the big Red offensive.)

The President's remarks were made as he prepared to tell South Korea's prime minister, Park "Toi" Chin, at their White House conference that his country would be invited to join the United Nations.

On other international developments, Mr. Eisenhower:

1. Said the anti-Communist uprising in East Berlin is very significant and possibly a lesson for this country that people overseas will recognize the threat of communism.

2. Said fears that this country had weakened its Korean armistice stand are groundless.

3. Said he plans to issue a statement today dealing with this country's relationship to the coal and steel community of Europe.

4. Said there had been no solid evidence that the Russians had exploded another atomic bomb in the five months he had been in office.

Gas Worker Is Wreck Victim

PINE BLUFF (AP) — Henry Warren, a 48-year-old employee of the Arkansas-Louisiana Gas Co., was injured fatally here yesterday when struck by an automobile.

Patrolman Frank Shepard said the car was driven by Earl Abram, 35, of Pine Bluff. He said Abram's car ran into a ditch and hit Warren. He said the boy was charged with involuntary manslaughter and released on bond.

Warren died about an hour and a half after the accident.

DOROTHY DIX Flint-Hearted Widow

Dear Miss Dix: I know several women in the category I am about to describe, though one in particular is especially likable. She has plenty of money, no responsibilities and flits from one committee to another in search of something to occupy her time. The trouble is that she expects all her friends to cater to her, particularly in the matter of transportation. Though she has money for taxi cabs and lives near a bus line, she calls one friend or another every time she wants to go shopping, to the movies, or to a new committee meeting. We're all getting fed up with it, and if we refuse her requests, a nasty comment results. This widow has relatives living in a suburb of our city, but they rarely bother with her. I guess they learned their lesson, while the friends still are tolerant.

VIOLA M.

Answer: Your friend presents a most pathetic spectacle, and someone should set her straight, not so much on her attitude toward favors rendered as to the necessity for finding something worth-while in life. Women in her position, with plenty of time and money, have such a wonderful opportunity to be of real service. It's a sin for them to ignore it. Aren't any of her committees concerned with charitable projects that would inspire her to a little self-sacrifice? If not, perhaps you could point some out to her. Take her through the children's ward of a large hospital. Your city has many institutions for the care of neglected, ill, crippled youngsters. The sight of these needy children should give her a different outlook on life. I'm sure if her trips were to hospitals, transportation would be cheerfully provided. However, if she remains hardhearted and demanding, you and her other friend should simply refuse to be available.

Dear Miss Dix: Do you have a prescription for falling out of love or winning an old love back? About Italy has a million licensed drivers, but only 40,000 of them are women.

Answer: Your friend's problem will solve itself, leaving him slightly battered, it's true, but wiser. The lady involved will never divorce her husband to marry the boy, and will, in fact, lose interest in him when someone of greater charm appears upon the scene.

CONCERNED

Answer: Your friend's problem will solve itself, leaving him slightly battered, it's true, but wiser. The lady involved will never divorce her husband to marry the boy, and will, in fact, lose interest in him when someone of greater charm appears upon the scene.

Dear Miss Dix: One of my closest friends has been receiving anonymous letters containing false statements. These letters are causing a great deal of trouble between him and his family. What can be done to trace them, and what can be done to the person who wrote them?

PAUL D.

Answer: Your friend can take the letters to the District Attorney's office, or to a Postal Inspector. It's very difficult to trace anonymous letters, but not impossible. Released by Bell Syndicate, Inc.

Fair Enough

I guess I will tell you about my trip on a flying machine in a Texas tornado.

We took off from New Orleans about 11:30 in the morning. The weather was good for the first half hour or so. The trip to Dallas on the Delta line normally takes about an hour and 45 minutes and it seems that he ought to get there right on time. But, about halfway, it suddenly got dark under a heavy layer of cloud that was shutting out the sun. Then the roads in sight through the windows began to shine wet, which meant that they were having rain down there.

Just about on schedule we dropped down to a thousand feet and seems to be coming in but instead began to make circles and figure-eights. We repeated a lot of landmarks over Dallas and hit a few bumps. Some people began to get sick and ring for the little girls to bring them those cups, but that was mostly because when the ship makes sharp banks this way and that, people get dizzy.

After a while, squared off at the airport and came down slowly, until it seemed the tires would touch the very next second. Then there was a big roar and the fireman shovelled on a lot of coal, and up we went again, off into the clouds. They were so thick you sometimes couldn't see the end of the wing or even the outboard engine.

When we made our second "unsuccessful" landing at Tyler, Tex., off to the east of Dallas, the captain told us a just or squall had hit us just as we were about to touch down. He was a nice, good-looking kid and his final must have been very near because an airman among the passengers said that if you lose the air pressure under your wings you are committed and you have to settle down, squall or no squall.

We flapped around that way for almost an hour before the girl announced over the speaker that we were going to Tyler. We had just barely found it on the map when there it was right under us. We made a gentle landing on an airstrip that probably hadn't held many DC-3's before because they didn't have the right kind of stair but only a little one, suitable for DC-3's. They rolled that out and put some clumsy piece of gear on top of it and some of the people got down to stretch and about a dozen little kids club aboard to inspect us. They went up into the office and looked over the dials and lovers and the man gave them a little talk. After maybe 45 minutes, the captain came back and said the storm was now blowing away to the northeast and Dallas was clear. So we fastened up and got going, expecting to make Dallas in about 15 or 20 minutes. But this time we really ran into something and the ship began to bump and there was lightning and a few clouds actually have substance because when you fly into a mass you hit resistance and the ship struggles like a boat in a sea.

Then we began to hear a little sort of crackle on the shell and the second time we came down at Tyler the captain said you never rain. That crackle was hail. He didn't like it because it might break the windshield of the office. With a 30-mph wind blowing in his face he might have trouble with his work. A flight from Dallas into El Paso a couple of years ago ran into hail so bad the cowlings of the engines was all hammered up. However, what you don't know doesn't scare you and after bumping around up there, out of sight of everything, people began to wonder whether Dallas was lost or we were. Then the little girl got on the air again and said we were going back to Tyler for another "unsuccessful" landing. They don't like the word "unsuccessful" because they are very

Lowly Browns End Yankee's Win Streak

By VERNON BUTLER

Associated Press Sports Writer

After riding a 9-game home winning streak to the top of the Southern Association, the Nashville Vols look to the road today to see if they can hold the lead away from cozy Sulphur Dell.

Nashville came home from a so-so road trip June 9 in fifth place. The team caught fire, raked Mobile for five straight and then bowled over pace-setting Birmingham four times in a row to grab the lead. The Vols capped the victory surge last night with a 12-5 pasting of the Barons which vaulted them into first place.

They invaded New Orleans tomorrow and follow with series at Mobile and Little Rock before getting another shot at the short rightfield fence their defeated batters love so well.

The standings were shaken up like a bowlful of lottery tickets last night. Little Rock topped New Orleans, 5-1, and edged into fifth place ahead of the Peas; Mobile outdistanced Memphis, 9-3, and advanced from the cellar to seventh place. Chattanooga returned to the bottom rung after a 4-3 loss to Atlanta.

A lot of the credit for Little Rock's location at the top of the second division belongs to young Dick Hookema. The little left-hander handed New Orleans six hits to notch his fourth straight victory and his second in three over New Orleans. He stopped the Peas in the 12th inning Sunday, at least 15 per cent of another Trave who got rich on the series at least 15 per cent of the voters voting in the last general election.

The Garland county circuit court has upheld validity of the petitions. The township where the elections would be held are Lee, Farmer, Sulphur, Mill and Bain.

State Sen. O. Hyrum Hurst represents the beverage association, and R. Julian Glover represents the election petitioners.

"Frogs" From France

The English attributed the assumed weakness and small stature of the French during the 16th century wars between the French and English, to their eating of frogs. Hence, frog eaters, which later was shortened to "frog," a common nickname for a Frenchman.

Planes never fall. They lose altitude.

By this time some of the people were dazed and sick, including a young infantry soldier home from Germany and bound for Korea. One passenger had a few alibis of frog in her purse and sent it to a woman from Phoenix who was having a hard time. It seemed to do her good. They wheeled out the make-shift apparatus again and by helping one another we all got down and went inside for coffee and some of the most awful sandwiches you ever had a fang at, even in Texas, which is saying something because if there is any country that can abuse good food worse than England is Texas, even in the best hotels. Chamber of Commerce ought to do something.

A building contractor for Orlando, Florida, took his brief case ashore this time and invited a lady to join him in a drag of nutritious, character-building spirits. A few minutes later, in the girls' room, the woman from San Francisco with the little girl, about two years old, sniffed her breath and asked where she got it. The lady with the breath came out and asked Orlando if he would perform another act of Christian charity and he handed it over. The word spread and there was a stampede of dames. When the guy got his bottle back it was practically empty but he was very nice about it.

A DC-3 came in and flew off toward Shreveport. After another hour or so the sky cleared and we lit out for Dallas once more. We were a few feet short now because some people were on the line time by taking the bus. The captain told us while we were down that there were 14 planes stacked on that second long pass at Dallas and that four of them were "lost," meaning their radios were so weak they couldn't communicate, so the tower and the other ships didn't know where they were. He also told us he had made a second try at Dallas on the first approach from New Orleans and again had to tear out on account of another gust.

Well, when we finally did land and the kid came down the aisle we all cheered and clapped. I kept thinking about a wonder story old Brisbane did one winter in Florida about a flight over the Everglades and keys in a blimp. They put the papers aboard us in Dallas and we began to realize that we had been through an experience because the weather got the banner and by morning the story had grown into a tornado with ten dead on the ground. I don't see why the airlines keep shoving people and planes into such weather. They certainly made no money on us with all that fuel burned up and all that overtime. However they are insured and those pilots are wonderful. They pull through many situations that the people never hear of, but just the same a couple of weeks later a DC-3 wedged into a cyclone over Shreveport and went down when it should have sat down at Tyler or Marshall.

Millers Show Stuff Like Champions

Nine times out of 10 when baseball players or teams have their "day," they flub it in front of the homefolks.

The situation was right last night for such an exhibition when the Meridian Millers hoisted the 1952 Cotton States League pennant, first in the city's history. But with a banner fluttering from the flagpole, the Millers showed the stuff they were made of by moving on toward the 1953 championship in defeating Greenville 4-3.

To make it a perfect night, right-hander Bobby Harrison won his 12th of the year against two losses. Harrison had a 24-5 mark last year in obtaining the Millers to the pennant.

In other games, Pine Bluff fell four and a half games behind Meridian by taking an 11-2 pasting at the hands of Natchez. Jackson defeated El Dorado, 5-1, and Hot Springs' Hal Martin engineered a 6-3 triumph over Monroe.

At Meridian, Harrison limited Greenville to only five hits and all the Bucks' runs were unearned. Harrison had to be right, however, because the Millers were collecting only six hits.

Catcher Bill Lewis' 2-run homer in the first, which gave Harrison a lead to work on, was his fifth in nine games.

Greenville got a run back in the fifth and went ahead with two runs on singles by Roger Rada and Roy Posipanka and an error. But the Millers, a late inning ball club, got the two runs it needed to win in the seventh when Bobby Christiansen tripled home Harrison and Gene Pompella.

At Natchez, the Indians broke a 4-game losing streak in thumping Pine Bluff, 4-1. A 4-run, second inning on singles by Bobby Collins and Chico Moreno, three walks, an error and an out gave Roy Jayne all the runs he needed in scattering nine hits.

Martin, the League's leading hitter, was the big gun in the Hot Springs win. Martin clubbed his 21st homer of the season with two men aboard in the seventh to break a 3-3 tie. The win was left-hander Bob Gibbons' second against two losses.

Maurice Kelly had a shutout, working at Jackson until the eighth when El Dorado's Bill Brightwell doubled, went to third on an error and came home on a ground out. Kelly allowed the Oilers only five hits. Jackson also using the big inning, tallied three times in the first

To make it a perfect night, right-hander Bobby Harrison won his 12th of the year against two losses. Harrison had a 24-5 mark last year in obtaining the Millers to the pennant.

In other games, Pine Bluff fell four and a half games behind Meridian by taking an 11-2 pasting at the hands of Natchez. Jackson defeated El Dorado, 5-1, and Hot Springs' Hal Martin engineered a 6-3 triumph over Monroe.

At Meridian, Harrison limited Greenville to only five hits and all the Bucks' runs were unearned. Harrison had to be right, however, because the Millers were collecting only six hits.

Catcher Bill Lewis' 2-run homer in the first, which gave Harrison a lead to work on, was his fifth in nine games.

Greenville got a run back in the fifth and went ahead with two runs on singles by Roger Rada and Roy Posipanka and an error. But the Millers, a late inning ball club, got the two runs it needed to win in the seventh when Bobby Christiansen tripled home Harrison and Gene Pompella.

At Natchez, the Indians broke a 4-game losing streak in thumping Pine Bluff, 4-1. A 4-run, second inning on singles by Bobby Collins and Chico Moreno, three walks, an error and an out gave Roy Jayne all the runs he needed in scattering nine hits.

Martin, the League's leading hitter, was the big gun in the Hot Springs win. Martin clubbed his 21st homer of the season with two men aboard in the seventh to break a 3-3 tie. The win was left-hander Bob Gibbons' second against two losses.

Maurice Kelly had a shutout, working at Jackson until the eighth when El Dorado's Bill Brightwell doubled, went to third on an error and came home on a ground out. Kelly allowed the Oilers only five hits. Jackson also using the big inning, tallied three times in the first

Millers Show Stuff Like Champions

By HAROLD HART

Associated Press Sports Writer

Nine times out of 10 when baseball players or teams have their "day," they flub it in front of the homefolks.

The situation was right last night for such an exhibition when the Meridian Millers hoisted the 1952 Cotton States League pennant, first in the city's history. But with a banner fluttering from the flagpole, the Millers showed the stuff they were made of by moving on toward the 1953 championship in defeating Greenville 4-3.

To make it a perfect night, right-hander Bobby Harrison won his 12th of the year against two losses. Harrison had a 24-5 mark last year in obtaining the Millers to the pennant.

Administration Plan Is for More Economy

By DON WHITEHEAD
For James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower and his civilian defense chiefs are moving toward a new relationship between economy and spending for the military and the nation. And the goal is more economy.

This move has stirred up a growing dispute, particularly over a five billion dollar cutback in Air Force funds which either will weaken the nation's defense or, if it is not made, will weaken the nation's economy.

But despite the critics, the administration is pushing ahead with a new approach to the defense problem which appears to be guided by these convictions:

1. That Russia is not ready for war and therefore there is time for a critical review of military goals fixed by the Truman administration.

2. That security means not only military strength but also a sound economy that includes a balanced budget.

The administration has turned into a great deal of the thinking that guided the military buildup during the Truman administration. Secretary of Defense Wilson — who has Eisenhower's support — has even refused to accept as final estimates made by the present Joint Chiefs of Staff on what the size and composition of the U. S. armed forces should be to give this country future security.

He has told senators the new Joint Chiefs soon to take office, and the National Security Council, will review U. S. military needs and strategy and this study will provide the basis for future decisions on military strength.

The Air Force argument underscores administration rejection of the thesis that this country must gear its military buildup toward a "crisis year." This is a turnaround from this planning of the past two years.

The Truman administration had set mid-1954 as the crisis point in free world defense planning. This was the date on which it was estimated Russia would have stockpiled enough atomic bombs for war.

There seems no doubt Secretary Wilson and others around him view the danger of attack by Russia with less alarm than the nation has become accustomed to—or else they are willing to take a larger risk in the interest of a sounder economy.

Wilson has declared that from the information given to him the Russian Air Force is mainly a defensive force with a bomber arm that does not match American bomber power.

He told senators the Russian Air Force "is much more a defensive Air Force and not an offensive Air Force — that ought to give the American people some encouragement."

Sen. Hill (D-Ala.) wanted to know if Wilson had meant the U. S. also had more of a defensive Air Force than an offensive force. The secretary replied: "Oh, no. We are the people who are building the bomber."

The implication in Wilson's reply seemed to be the Russians have more to fear from our Air Force than we have to fear from Russian air power, a viewpoint not often voiced in these parts.

Last month, Deputy Secretary of Defense, Roger M. Kyes said Soviet Russia "needs oil, raw material, transportation and fabricating facilities before it is in a position to assume risks of sustained war."

And while he said the Russians should not be underestimated, he added it was significant that Russia "has recently slipped in its potential."

Adding up these statements, it would seem the new Pentagon chiefs have sized up Russia's war making ability and decided the outlook isn't as dark as it had been pictured — therefore the U. S. pace can be slowed down a bit for a new look.

On the economy side, the incoming Joint Chiefs of Staff and National Security Council are certain to have a sympathetic awareness of the administration's goal of a balanced budget and lower taxes

Freedom Village Has Truce Fever

MUNSAN — Truce fever tripped this advance U. N. base today and work was rushed on preparations for exchanging nearly 100,000 prisoners of war soon after an armistice is signed.

Allied officers conferred behind closed doors following Washington reports that most Americans liberated from Communist prison camps will return home by ship.

Near here, Freedom Village got a late spring cleaning as workmen started scraping up the tent town to accommodate returned prisoners of war as it did during the exchange of sick and wounded in April.

But the 45th Army Surgical Hospital Unit next to Freedom Village began pulling up stakes for a move to a new location several miles away. This hospital unit is not expected to be as busy as it was during the first exchange when only sick and wounded captives were traded.

Elemental Childbirth

Childbirth originally was ascribed to the influence upon mothers of the sun, rain, or the rivers or trees, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Some primitive sheep have long, fat tails.

SPECIAL NOTICE

The State Board governing Burial Associations in the State of Arkansas has notified all operators of Burial Associations... that after the First of July, 1953, there will be a slight raise in burial dues. This raise will not in any way effect the amount of protection that members are now carrying but will apply to any additional raise made after the First of July.

We suggest that those having protection and see the need for more protection, due to the now prevailing price, should call at Our Office at the Hope Furniture Company, Main and Third Street, on or before the First of July, and check your record and see if you are fully protected.

Do you have Burial Protection? If not, now is the time to derive the benefit of the old rate before the First of July.
